

Azrieli International Postdoctoral Fellowship in Israel Program Guidelines for Selection of the 2027–28 Cohort

Application Deadline: Wednesday, November 11, 2026

About the Azrieli International Postdoctoral Fellowship

The Azrieli International Postdoctoral Fellowship supports the best and brightest minds in their postdoctoral research, connecting them with world-class academics and leading researchers.

The fellowship provides generous funding for eligible international applicants to conduct research in any academic discipline at eligible institutions in Israel. Azrieli International Postdoctoral Fellowships are awarded without regard to religion, gender, age or ethnicity.

Azrieli International Postdoctoral Fellows join a network of outstanding early-career scientists and scholars. They enjoy opportunities for interdisciplinary and cross-cultural exchange, leadership training, community engagement, professional mentorship, a growing alumni network and a welcoming staff dedicated to the wellbeing of all Azrieli Fellows.

Applications for the fellowship open on August 9, 2026. To apply, please visit <https://azrielifoundation.org/fellows/internationalpostdoctoral/>

Eligibility

1. The Azrieli International Postdoctoral Fellowship is open to candidates who have officially been awarded their PhD degrees (signified by the date on their diploma) no earlier than November 1, 2023, in all countries except Israel. Allowances are made for parental leave, medical leave, or other career interruptions.
2. Candidates currently enrolled in a PhD program may apply, provided they complete their dissertation defence successfully no later than June 1, 2027. Official university documentation indicating a dissertation defence date will be required.
3. Applicants must not have received an academic degree – including undergraduate or graduate degrees – in an Israeli institution. However, former visiting and/or exchange students to Israel are eligible to apply.
4. Applicants must not have begun a postdoctoral position in Israel before September 1, 2026.
5. The Azrieli International Postdoctoral Fellowship is open to candidates who have secured an academic sponsor and will perform their postdoctoral research at one of the following Israeli institutions: Bar-Ilan University, Ben-Gurion University of the Negev, Reichman University, Technion - Israel Institute of Technology, Tel Aviv University, The Hebrew University of Jerusalem, University of Haifa, and Weizmann Institute of Science.

Academic Sponsor

1. At the time of application, all applicants are required to have an academic sponsor who is a faculty member at one of the above-mentioned eligible Israeli institutions.
2. Academic sponsors can only sponsor one candidate in this year's Azrieli International Postdoctoral application process.

3. The academic sponsor cannot host a candidate whom they have previously supervised in an official capacity during a PhD program. However, they may sponsor prior visiting PhD researchers.
4. The academic sponsor will confirm the candidate's suitability, undertake to actively support, collaborate and share relevant expertise with the candidate, and ensure the availability of facilities, office space, and funding to carry out the proposed research.
5. The sponsor must submit a progress report for the candidate twice a year, at dates determined by the Azrieli Fellows Program.
6. In STEM fields, the academic sponsor commits to financing 25 percent of the stipend, totalling ILS 84,000 for two years (ILS 42,000 per year).

Number of Fellowships

1. A maximum of 24 Azrieli International Postdoctoral Fellowships are awarded each year: up to 18 fellowships in STEM fields, up to three in humanities, and up to three in social sciences.

Fellowship Period

1. The fellowship is offered for two years. Renewal for a third year will be considered favourably, subject to a competitive evaluation process.
2. Candidates may begin their fellowship as early as June 1, 2027, or as late as February 1, 2028. Please note that the Israeli academic year and Azrieli Fellows programming begin in October 2026.

Fellowship Value

1. The fellowship consists of a basic stipend of ILS 168,000 per academic year, with an additional ILS 20,000 granted annually for research expenses and research-related travel. Research expense funding is available only for the stipulated duration of the fellowship, and these expenditures are subject to academic institution regulations and approval.

2. The basic stipend is divided into monthly payments of ILS 14,000. Fellows accompanied to Israel by a companion may receive up to ILS 20,000 per year, with the sum dependent upon the Azrieli Fellows Program team's discretion.
3. The Azrieli International Postdoctoral Fellowship is paid by the host academic institution in Israeli Shekels (ILS) to the Azrieli Fellow's Israeli bank account.
4. The Azrieli Fellows Program does not restrict candidates from holding other funding concurrently. Candidates should be aware that the host academic institution may impose constraints on additional funding.

Selection Criteria

Applications will be evaluated according to the following criteria:

Academic Excellence

- Quality, originality and productivity of research to date
- Research independence
- Previous awards or scholarships

Proposed Research

- Quality and feasibility of the proposed research
- Unique contribution of the candidate
- Potential for research innovation
- Suitability and quality of the proposed research environment

Leadership and Versatility

- Leadership qualities
- Intellectual curiosity
- Engagement with society
- Communication skills

Ideal candidates will have an excellent academic track record and the potential to conduct groundbreaking research, along with intellectual curiosity that transcends their field of study. They will possess a character that facilitates teamwork, scientific and societal leadership, with traits such as empathy, humility and integrity, alongside communication capabilities.

Selection Process

The selection process will take place in three stages. At the end of each stage, a shortlist of candidates will advance to the next stage.

Stage One: Preselection Screening: Teams of academics from diverse disciplines conduct an initial review of applications.

Stage Two: Academic Review by Committees: Shortlisted applications are reviewed by one of four multidisciplinary committees, composed of internationally renowned scientists and scholars of life sciences, exact sciences, humanities, and social sciences.

Stage 3: Interview Panel: A panel of interviewers will meet with the finalists. The panel comprises representatives of the Azrieli Fellows Program, representatives of the academic committees, the Senior Academic Advisor of the Azrieli Fellows Program, and experts on leadership and personal merit.

Azrieli Fellows' Obligations

Alongside unique benefits, Azrieli Fellows are expected to:

1. Maintain high academic standards at their host academic institution: Fellows are expected to maintain a high level of academic excellence at their host academic institution throughout the program. This is evaluated through regular progress reports. Fellows are expected to be based in Israel for at least 75 percent of the fellowship period.
2. Participate in program-sponsored enrichment activities: The fellowship's program activities and events are aimed at creating a welcoming environment, developing skills, promoting leadership and encouraging interdisciplinary discourse. The program's activities promote interaction among researchers in a multidisciplinary setting, introduce participants to world-renowned scientists and scholars, and facilitate networking with a vibrant community of academics.
3. Engage with the community: Fellows are offered opportunities to engage with the local academic and general communities through voluntary, non-political/non-partisan activities.
4. Acknowledge the Azrieli Foundation: Any publications that result from research activities conducted during the fellowship period must acknowledge the support of the Azrieli Foundation.
5. Participate in alumni activities: Fellows will become part of a growing global community of Azrieli Fellows – past and present – and are expected to act as ambassadors for the program. Azrieli alumni often share their experiences with others, publicize the program to their colleagues and participate in information sessions for new candidates.
